SCENIC ROAD

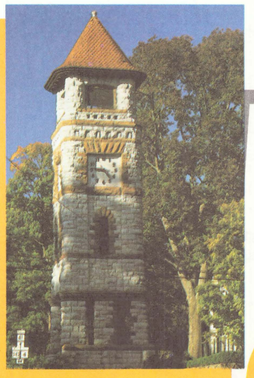

We're full of surprises!

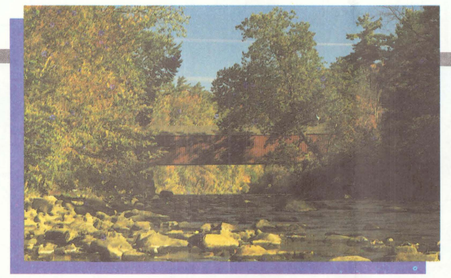

Official Tourism Map 1996-97

Scenic surprises are all over the map.

Route 41

This 4-mile country road tucked away in the hills of northeastern Connecticut's Litchfield County is a treasure waiting to be discovered. Like something out of a Norman Rockwell painting, perfectly restored colonial homes, churches and shops dot the streets of downtown Sharon. And don't miss the old, granite clocktower – a favorite stop for passersby. In the fall, the frost comes early to this region, and with it comes some of the most brilliant foliage you'll ever see.

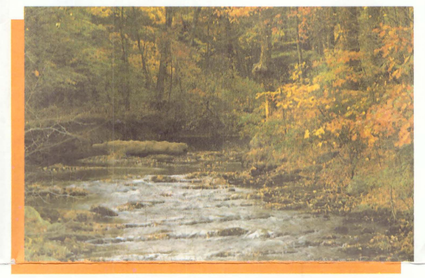

Route 7

Travel from bridge to bridge on this magnificent 4.3-mile stretch. Begin at the Cornwall Bridge crossing of the Housatonic River, and travel north through the backwoods of Litchfield County. The road winds along the wooded riverbank through the Housatonic Meadows State Park. Your journey ends at Route 128 in West Cornwall, where you'll find a second covered bridge, and maybe even a few trout fisherman looking to bring home a trophy catch.

Route 202

Running through the heart of Connecticut, this 5.3-mile scenic stretch boasts lush meadows, tree-lined hills and the pristine Nepaug Reservoir. Hikers and bikers can explore the paths at the Nepaug State Forest. And for the country cook, there's Gresczyk's Farm in New Hartford, with a variety of fresh fruits and vegetables for that special feast. It's all just a few minutes off Route 8 in Torrington!

Route 169

This 32-mile drive, from Lisbon through Woodstock, gives you a glimpse of what life was like for Yankee farmers. Gentle, rolling fields covered with corn stalks and apple orchards stretch as far as the eye can see. And beautiful old barns with towering grain silos still remain. Stop by Woodstock's Roseland Cottage – a national historic landmark. Or enjoy a sweet cup of cider from a roadside stand. Experience Route 169 and you'll understand why it was voted one of the top 10 scenic roads in the country by Scenic America.

No matter where you're going in Connecticut, there's a beautiful stretch of scenic road that can take you there. And each has its own unique personality. From the fresh, salty breezes of southern Connecticut's Route 146, to the pine-scented woodlands of Route 7 in the north. Connecticut's scenic byways offer so much to see and do. You can hunt for antiques. Stop for a picnic. Shoot the landscape. Or simply relax and enjoy all the natural beauty Connecticut has to offer. And there's always a place to grab a bite to eat, or a bed for the night. So take a ride on Connecticut's scenic byways – you'll be surprised what you'll find. Route 317

A favorite stop for photographers, antiquers and pumpkin pickers alike, this short (.4 miles), but scenic country road runs through the town of Roxbury. Rolling hills and fields provide the perfect backdrop for barns and homes – many over a century old. And the beautiful, winding country road is dotted with antique and gift shops, so you can find that perfect something to remind you of your trip.

Route 77

Start at the shore and then head for the hills on this 11.5-mile scenic country road, running from Guilford Center north to the town of Durham. See turn-of-the-century farmhouses, crooked old barns and picturesque meadows. There's even a pond along the West River where you can fish, canoe or simply take in the scenery. Bring the camera, and lots of film. You're sure to find plenty of picture-postcard opportunities.

Route 234

Also known as the Pequot Trail, this 3.2-mile stretch through Stonington is truly a driver's delight. Experience breathtaking views of the valley below as you head up a steep ridge traveling east. Then twist and turn your way through the wooded back country. Rows of majestic maple trees provide a shady hollow for historic colonial homes and country churches.

Route 146

Take this 12.2-mile tour through the shoreline towns of Branford and Guilford. Enjoy the cool, sea breezes as you pass salt ponds and scenic marshland. See dreamy summer cottages, magnificent beach front homes, and the popular Thimble Islands just offshore. Or taste the catch of the day at one of our many local restaurants. For all the "salty dogs" out there, this is one Connecticut road you won't want to miss.

DRIVING TIPS

CONNECTICUT DEPARTMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES

NON-RESIDENTS: Connecticut extends reciprocal driving and registration privileges to non-residents to the extent that other states grant the same privileges to Connecticut.
MOTOR VEHICLE ACCIDENT REPORTS: Operators involved in motor vehicle accidents are not required to file accident reports. State and local police authorities, within five days of completion of the official investigation of the accident, complete and file a uniform investigation of accident report with the Department of Transportation (DOT). DOT processes the accident reports for highway safety purposes. In certain types of accidents, viz., fatalities and accidents involving school buses or other public service vehicles, a copy of the police report submitted must be forwarded from DOT to DMV. The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is specifically authorized to investigate further any reported accident, and to require the assistance of the State Police for this purpose.
LICENSE AND REGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS: The minimum driving age is 16. Drivers moving to Connecticut must obtain a valid Connecticut license within 30 days. Registration must be secured in 60 days.
SEAT BELT REQUIRED: The operator of any private passenger vehicle and any front seat passenger shall wear seat safety belt while the vehicle is being operated on the state's highways. The law also applies to vanpool vehicles equipped with seat safety belts.
CHILD RESTRAINTS: Any person who transports a child under the age of four years in a motor vehicle shall provide and require the child to use a child restraints system. For any child between the ages of one year and four years, a safety belt in the rear seat may be used instead of a child restraint system.
STUDDED SNOW TIRES: Studded snow tires may only be used in Connecticut during the period November 15 to April 30. Violators are subject to fine.
SCHOOL BUSES: Except on highways where a median separates the direction of traffic flow, drivers must stop for a standing bus displaying flashing red lights, regardless of their direction of travel.

FISHING AND WILDLIFE RECREATION IN CONNECTICUT

Nearly two-thirds of Connecticut is open land, making it an ideal state for anglers, hunters wildlife photographers and birdwatchers. Anglers may pursue such freshwater species as trout, bass, pickerel and shad, or take to the salt water for the seasonal excitement of marine recreational angling.

The diversity of woodland, wetland, farmland and coastal habitats allows hundreds of different species of wildlife to flourish in Connecticut, everything from bald eagles and bluebirds, to bobcats and black bears. The diversity and abundance of our wildlife resources provide aesthetic value and recreational opportunities to wildlife enthusiasts.

In addition to the wildlife recreation opportunities on State Parks and Forests (no hunting in Parks) the numerous Wildlife Management Areas located throughout the state offer opportunities for hunting as well as hiking and bird watching. Non-hunters should note that they may encounter hunters on any Wildlife Management Area or State Forest during the primary hunting period from September through February. No hunting is allowed on Sunday in Connecticut.

The Stewart B. McKinney and Salt Meadow National Wildlife Refuges include five units along the Connecticut coast between Westbrook and Norwalk. The upland, salt marsh, barrier spit (Milford Point ans Salt Meadow NWR, Westbrook) and three island (Sheffield, Chimon, and Falkner) total 338 acres and provide nesting and migration habitat for some of the largest wading bird colonies and the third largest roseate tern colony in the Northeast.

Connecticut offers hunting opportunities for the big game species of deer and turkey. A wide variety of small game is found in abundance throughout Connecticut's fields and forests. Pheasants are stocked in state and private lands open to hunting. Waterfowl abound in freshwater ponds and marshes, along rivers, and in coastal estuaries and embayments of Long Island Sound.

LICENSES

Hunting licenses are required for all those age 12 or older, and are available to persons who meet the Department of Environmental Protection's licensing requirements. Fishing licenses are required for those age 16 or older. No fishing license is currently required to fish in the marine district.
Hunting and fishing licenses and Field Guides may be obtained at any town clerk's office or from some businesses designated as licensing agents.
